1. Executive Summary

The Application Integration Service (AIS) is used to control access to restricted resources by intercepting the user requests and to force them to authenticate through the FutureID infrastructure. Furthermore, it validates the credentials and creates a session for authenticated user to gain access to the requested resources afterwards.

The main objective of this document is to verify if the AIS-components are working properly.

For further information on the architecture design and implementation from the AIS component, please refer to the following deliverables:

- D44.3 - Technical specification of interfaces, modules and documentation for the application integration services
- D44.4 - Implementation of Application Integration Service
